NEOS*SOFT*

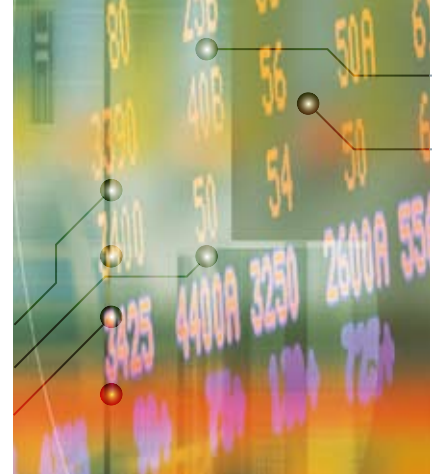

Intelligent software serving the financial markets

- Finance and information technology
- Development services
- Recruitment consultancy services

From its origins in the specialist IT world of trading rooms, Netsoft has evolved into a company providing consultancy and support for the development of a broader range of financial applications.

The latest addition to our range of services is a recruiting division that specializes in hiring consultants, project managers and expert developers.

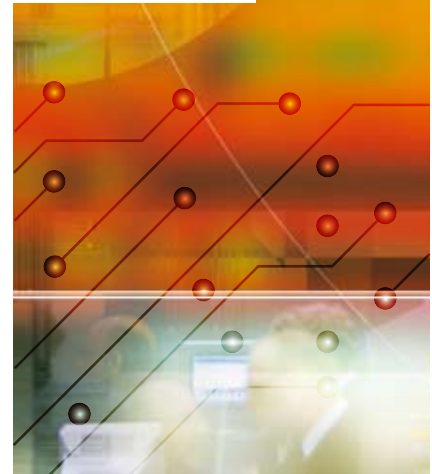

Our specialists are on hand to provide consultancy and support for your financial application development projects.

● Finance and information technology

The unprecedented growth in the financial industry over the last decade has resulted in increasingly complex financial products and rapidly growing transaction volumes. Information systems in this sector have undergone radical changes.

The strengths that enable us to respond to our clients' needs are our systems and financial industry expertise combined with our consultants' customer relationship building skills.

Development services

Neosoft focuses on high quality recruiting and professional training of team members. All of our staff have a scientific background and are university graduates.

Service is at the heart of our business

Our main business activities are:

- Electronic trading: this highly specialized area includes major functions, such as the transmission of stock market orders, real time flows, and private market implementation.
- Front, middle and back office functions: Neosoft is active in projects involving financial software (Summit, Murex, Calypso, etc.), as well as solutions that are designed and developed in-house.
- Internet/Intranet: development of complex web sites, and B2B and B2C projects in a j2EE or .Net environment.
- Trading and production support.
- Principal contracting authority for projects: architecture definition, assistance in the software selection process, setting up and monitoring of accounts.

Recruitment consultancy services

Neosoft now offers its proven expertise in hiring experienced engineers and consultants to its clients.

Our specialized niche position in the market enables us to provide a prompt, high quality service.

Our recruiting consultancy methodology is based on an in-depth analysis of our clients' specific requirements. Our structured and effective approach ensures a perfect match between clients' requirements and the skilled candidates we source.

Our main objective is matching people with jobs and companies.

We offer a distinctive range of services dedicated to the needs of the financial industry
